THE BUSINESS PLAN IS THE PILLAR OF THE PERMIT

A well-structured and viable business plan is essential to obtain residence authorization as a self-employed worker. It must demonstrate the economic sustainability of the project, its impact on the local market, and the applicant's ability to manage it.

FLEXIBLE INITIAL INVESTMENT ADAPTED TO THE APPLICANT'S PROFILE

Current regulations allow adjusting the minimum investment according to the type of activity and the applicant's personal situation. No fixed amount is required, but proof of sufficient economic means to start and maintain the activity is necessary.

TAX FRAMEWORK ADAPTED TO REAL INCOME

The contribution system for self-employed workers is based on actual income, allowing a fairer and more proportional contribution. Additionally, there are tax incentives for sustainable, technological, or economically significant activities.
