STANDARD PROTECTION PERIOD

In most countries, copyright protects works during the author´s lifetime plus 70 years. This period ensures that heirs can benefit from the work after the author´s death.

ANONYMOUS AND PSEUDONYMOUS WORKS

For works whose authorship is unknown, protection usually lasts 70 years from publication. If the author´s identity is revealed, the standard period of the author´s lifetime plus 70 years applies.

IMPACT ON THE PUBLIC DOMAIN

The duration of copyright directly affects access to works in the public domain. Extensions in protection periods may delay the availability of important works for free public use.
